Introduction to Aspect Patterns

Astrology describes the complex personality pattern inside each of us that makes us an individual. Some charts have many aspect patterns, others few. Some lives feature much change, others follow a steady course. Your chart features 4 aspect patterns. The fewer the patterns that you have, the closer these descriptions should fit you. This report will try to interpret the tightest, most dominant patterns first. Pattern analysis is important for understanding your special path, but there are other planetary aspects in your chart that are not part of these large patterns - these are delineated in your complete natal report. There is an almost infinite variety of planetary arrangements that are possible - the moment of your birth picked one of the possibilities. All humans feel the patterns formed by the planets at our birth, but the manner and extent to which we are able to express those patterns depends on a combination of circumstances and free will. If you are reading this, then your brain is past the stage where it is dominated purely by instinct - a part of you is sensitive to the planetary dynamics in the astral body that was created at your birth. Perhaps seen from the viewpoint of worldly values, some charts may appear to be more fortunate than other charts, but seen spiritually we each have a chart that gives us the opportunity to learn valuable lessons. The external life occupies the ego's attention while the universe teaches the spirit what it needs to learn. You have the opportunity to channel the life energies of the planets in the course of creating and experiencing the joys, rewards, sorrows, and frustrations of being alive. You experience those energies according to the unique configuration frozen in your natal chart, but you always have free will.

Arrow Yod

This chart features an Arrow Yod aspect pattern - also known as the Boomerang, it is a version of the more common Yod or Finger of God aspect pattern. At least two planets in favorable 60-degree sextile aspect to each other, Jupiter and the Sun, form challenging 150-degree inconjunct aspects to at least one focal planet, Pluto, as with the Yod, but in the case of this Arrow Yod pattern, there is at least one reaction planet, Chiron, which lies midway between the sextile planets and opposes the Yod's focal planet, receiving back through the opposition in a boomerang the energy that the inconjunct planets, Jupiter and the Sun, direct at the focal planet, Pluto. In the case of this Arrow Yod pattern, the connection of another planet, Chiron, through the opposition to the focal planet, Pluto, gives Pluto more perspective and expression than the inconjunct planets would supply. The pattern gives your life a focus and mission. Refer to the house and sign placement interpretations for Pluto and Chiron. The favorable sextile aspect between Jupiter and the Sun makes you observant with the strength to act. The Sun gives you an open and generous personality. Jupiter gives you strong ethics and an inclination to help the less fortunate. You succeed by throwing yourself wholeheartedly into what you do. This pattern centers you, making you flexible and quick to react.

With Pluto as an Arrow Yod pattern focus planet, you have a powerful intensity and can experience some dramatic changes in your life. You may know from an early age what will be your career. Your career could be versatile and wide-ranging. You have keen judgment and are willing to take risks. You become conscious of how the world operates at a young age. Certain of your career and/or life choices may violate social custom. Still, it is a mistake for you to play it safe, as doing so will only cause your career to stagnate. Your success will be in proportion to the extent to which you seek truth, not popularity. You face life fearlessly. A woman with this pattern will display exceptional courage and spirit. Big events could change your life and expand your awareness. When faced with life path choices, you will prefer the direction that leads to personal growth. With Chiron as a reaction planet, you have a high personal energy level. Your health will likely be especially important during your life. You may work to overcome barriers imposed by sickness, ignorance, prejudice, or poverty.

Arrow Yod, repeat

This already interpreted aspect pattern involves at least two planets in favorable 60-degree sextile aspect to each other, Pluto and Neptune, which form challenging 150-degree inconjunct aspects to at least one focal planet, the Sun, as with the Yod, but in the case of this Arrow Yod pattern, there is at least one reaction planet, the Moon, which lies midway between the sextile planets and opposes the Yod's focal planet, receiving back through the opposition in a boomerang the energy that the inconjunct planets, Pluto and Neptune, direct at the focal planet, the Sun. The pattern gives your life a focus and mission. Refer to the house and sign placement interpretations for the Sun and the Moon. The favorable sextile aspect between Pluto and Neptune makes you observant with the strength to act. Neptune can cause big success to slip from your grasp. You have a weakness for drugs, so stay away from them. With aspects to a positive planet such as Jupiter, you could have the mind of a poet. Pluto can mean that you must rally all your resources to face a shocking event in your life. You can tap into toughness and power. Pluto adds range and depth to your mind.

With the Sun as a focus planet for the Arrow Yod pattern, you look for a way to have the self shine. The life force is strong within you. You can maintain an activity that puts you at the center of attention for a long time. You thrive on the attention, but others are happy to have you play this role, as long as you are up for it. With the Moon as a reaction planet, you like to do things your own way. You have the adaptability to maintain and switch between multiple projects and skill sets. It is part of your appeal that you are in touch with your feelings. You respect and learn from the past. You act on impulse. You are a sensitive observer of people and politics. Women and the past play an especially important role in your life. You are more interested in learning personal stories than you are abstract generalizations. You could adopt children or animals and/or contribute to their welfare.

Cardinal T-Square, tight

This chart features a tight version of an aspect pattern known as a T-Square. At least two planets that are in opposition aspect to each other, the Sun and the Moon, form difficult but energizing square aspects to at least one focal planet, Mars, where all planets involved in the pattern fall in Cardinal signs. The T-Square can be an irritating aspect pattern to have, but one benefit of this connection between the planets is that it challenges you and keeps you from being lazy. The configuration has an energy flow that lets you accomplish a lot in a short amount of time. With the Sun as part of this pattern, you cannot help being a basically positive and active person. You are good-humored, blessed with energy and creativity, and you are eager for recognition. You have a pipeline to an unending fount of energy and ideas. The reflective Moon causes you to be influenced more than most by the people with whom you come into contact. You probably have a love of family, history, reading and writing. You may be blessed with a wonderful memory. The Moon gives you a sense of humor. You are good at reading the public taste and reacting to it. You could have a career in which you work for or appeal to the public. This reflective connection makes you kind of a chameleon - you adapt to your environment as opposed to making your environment adapt to you. They say that no man is an island - this is especially true of you. Your identity and the meaning of your life comes from your relationships with other people. You are quick to react when your friends need help. The concentration of Cardinal sign planets activates your imagination, making the Cardinal T-Square a common pattern in the charts of musicians, painters, actors, politicians and deranged people. It is less often found in the charts of occupations requiring incredible discipline, such as writers. While you have the imagination to be a good scientist, you may not have the patience for it. Cardinal signs are in love with action - with you there is often little gap between thought and deed.

Mars as a T-Square focus planet gives you sustained energy. You could have a long, productive life. You assert yourself with confidence. You have an aggressive, take-charge temperament, which is sometimes just what the doctor ordered. You like overcoming obstacles and do not back down from confrontations, which your life will include from time to time. Your active, risk-taking temperament is better suited to being an entrepreneur than being an employee. You can energize others to work. You may be an activist for a cause. You will still be more productive than most people when you are a senior citizen. The weakness to this configuration is that it is possible, especially when you are young, for your self-assured assertiveness to get you into situations that you do not have the ability, talent, or background to handle. If you work on educating yourself and developing your abilities, you will not overconfidently bite off more than you can chew. You could be unnecessarily argumentative and opinionated, with ears closed to compromise or criticism. But you will probably end up respected for courageously having and stating a point of view.

Grand Water Trine

You have a powerful aspect configuration known as a Grand Trine in your chart. In this chart, there are mutual trine aspects between Mars, Neptune, Mercury, and Chiron, in all three Water signs. You have an uplifting, soothing personality. You like to make people smile and laugh. You enjoy life and don't believe in rocking the boat. While you feel deeply, you don't get resentful or bitter. You will work long and hard without complaint. The combination of planets in Water signs makes you shy, sensitive, and compassionate. You would be a hands-on kind of parent. Mercury gives you a facile, witty mind. It enhances your senses and reflexes. You are good at using tools and communicating. Mars gives you toughness and bravery. You are strong-willed and outspoken. You have so much confidence that, especially when you are young, you sometimes bite off more than you can chew. But you do advance in life through winning many of the battles that you fight. You don't sit waiting. You are active, not passive. Neptune has a way of causing success to slip from your grasp. You have a weakness for drugs, so stay away from them. You fall easily into the victim role, but there is a deceptive complexity about you so that you are capable of surprising greatness. You have intuitive skills. Take risks - with victories you will build up your confidence. You have a great imagination - the question is whether it is just for fluff and fantasy. Chiron opens you up to input from the higher mind. You have innate, instinctual ability. You may be a step ahead of those around you. You are willing to make the personal sacrifices needed to pursue a goal when your inner guide tells you that you can make it work. Through injury, Chiron could turn your life in a valuable new direction. You search for new challenges to keep your life interesting. You feel compassion for the wounded and victimized. During your life you could teach tolerance and sharing. At least in the areas represented by the planets of this pattern, you are not held back by fear or by negative thinking. If you don't succeed at first, you will keep trying. You are popular and benefit through your many friendships. You have a talent for connecting people to you. Emotionally you tend to be self-contained and self-sufficient - it is your party - which others are free to join. It will help your objectivity if other planets aspect this pattern's planets, as this pattern can be kind of a closed loop in which your sensitive emotions recycle endlessly.
